Lindsey R. Sassone

GREENVILLE, SC

Lindsey Sassone focuses her practice on workers' compensation matters, representing employers and insurance companies. With experience in both workers' compensation and medical malpractice defense, Lindsey brings an analytical and detail-oriented approach to her practice. Drawing on her background in industrial engineering, she enjoys breaking down complex issues and evaluating the details of each matter to develop practical solutions for her clients.

Prior to joining the firm, Lindsey worked in medical malpractice defense and completed a year-long law clerkship with a workers' compensation insurance company, where she gained valuable experience supporting in-house counsel on workers' compensation matters. Originally from Louisiana, Lindsey recently relocated to the Greenville area and is excited to continue building her practice while serving employers and insurers throughout the region.

Outside of work, Lindsey enjoys spending time with her dog, Moxie, tackling DIY projects and reading. She is also passionate about animal welfare and volunteers with local shelters, including the Greenville Humane Society, where she helps socialize and exercise dogs while they await adoption.
