GREENVILLE, SC – Law firm McAngus Goudelock & Courie (MGC) welcomed attorneys Devyn Fischer, Hannah Hester, Lindsey Sassone and Tatum Timmerman to its Greenville office.

Devyn Fischer

Fischer focuses her practice on litigation matters, including premises liability, motor vehicle litigation, products liability and management and professional liability. She represents clients in a variety of civil matters and is committed to providing responsive, efficient and transparent service throughout the litigation process.

Fischer earned her Juris Doctor from University of South Carolina Joseph F. Rice School of Law, graduating cum laude, and Bachelor of Science from Bowling Green State University, graduating magna cum laude. She is also a member of the Greenville Bar Association and South Carolina Bar Association.

Hannah Hester

Hester focuses her practice on litigation, premises liability and motor vehicle litigation, representing carriers and insureds in a variety of civil matters. She brings a thoughtful and client-focused approach to her work, emphasizing clear communication and accessibility throughout the litigation process.

Hester earned her Juris Doctor from University of South Carolina Joseph F. Rice School of Law, graduating cum laude, and Bachelor of Science from Clemson University, graduating magna cum laude.

Lindsay Sassone

Sassone focuses her practice on workers' compensation matters, representing employers and insurance companies. With experience in both workers' compensation and medical malpractice defense, she brings an analytical and detail-oriented approach to her practice. Drawing on her background in industrial engineering, she enjoys breaking down complex issues and evaluating the details of each matter to develop practical solutions for her clients.

Sassone earned her Juris Doctor and Graduate Diploma in Comparative Law from Louisiana State University Paul M. Hebert Law Center and Bachelor of Science from Louisiana State University with a focus in Industrial Engineering.
