Alex Bialk focuses his practice on complex insurance coverage matters, advising insurers on coverage issues involving commercial property losses, builder's risk claims and other significant exposures. His experience includes first-party property matters involving business income loss, bad faith allegations and disputes concerning policy interpretation and valuation.

Alex represents domestic insurers and international markets, giving him experience navigating coverage issues across jurisdictions and a strong understanding of the considerations that shape complex claims. He works with clients to analyze policy obligations, evaluate risk and develop practical strategies for managing coverage disputes and related litigation.

With experience handling sophisticated insurance matters both before and during litigation, Alex brings a thoughtful, strategic approach to his practice. He serves as a trusted resource to insurers facing complex coverage questions, helping clients understand their options and make informed decisions at each stage of a matter.

In his personal time, Alex enjoys spending time with family and friends, including his two daughters. He is an avid golfer and sports fan and has completed eight full marathons, including the New York City Marathon and Chicago Marathon.
