Alexander J. Pierson

NASHVILLE, TN

Alex Pierson's practice focuses on insurance coverage, commercial and business litigation and appellate advocacy in our Nashville office, where he represents insurance carriers and their insureds in complex coverage disputes and related litigation. Alex brings a practical, business-focused approach to advising clients, helping them navigate coverage issues, evaluate risk and make informed decisions in high-stakes matters. He understands that effective representation requires more than an analysis of policy language - it requires an understanding of claims-handling realities, operational pressures and the broader business objectives of each client.

Prior to joining MGC, Alex practiced with an insurance defense firm, where he concentrated on insurance coverage and appellate advocacy matters. Earlier in his career, Alex practiced family law and served as a financial legal examiner with a state financial regulatory agency, experiences that strengthened his analytical, investigative and problem-solving skills. This diverse background allows him to approach complex disputes with a broad perspective and a strategic mindset.

"I go above and beyond answering the coverage questions presented, delivering candid early assessments that help clients make informed decisions with respect to their rights, duties and potential exposure before positions harden," says Alex. "Whether providing practical, results-focused coverage opinions, keeping claims professionals informed at every stage or protecting the record for appeal, I do what it takes to deliver efficient counsel that exceeds expectations."

In his personal time, Alex enjoys traveling with his corgi, reading and staying active.
