J. Brent Moore

NASHVILLE, TN

Brent Moore represents employers, third-party administrators and insurance carriers in workers' compensation matters, bringing more than two decades of legal experience to his practice. He focuses on aligning legal strategy with client objectives, delivering practical and cost-effective solutions tailored to each matter.

Licensed to practice in state and federal courts in Tennessee, Brent guides clients through workers' compensation claims with a steady, results-oriented approach. He is a frequent speaker on workers' compensation issues and their broader impact on the industry, reflecting his ongoing engagement with developments affecting employers and carriers across the state.

Throughout his career, Brent has handled a wide range of civil matters, including workers' compensation, employment disputes, commercial matters and tort claims. Earlier in his practice, he developed substantial trial experience across diverse civil cases, including adoption, business relations, construction defects, insurance coverage, premises liability and personal injury. This depth and breadth of experience inform his practical approach and provide clients with counsel grounded in real trial experience.
