Kierra McIntyre

ATLANTA, GA

Kierra McIntyre’s practice focuses on litigation at the firm’s Atlanta office, where she represents businesses and insured entities in a variety of civil litigation matters. Kierra approaches each case with a detail-oriented mindset, emphasizing organization and early identification of potential challenges to help position matters for efficient resolution.

Prior to joining MGC, Kierra worked with a personal injury firm, where she focused on personal injury matters and gained hands-on experience in litigation. Her time there, combined with two additional years working as a litigation clerk, provided her with a strong foundation in case management, legal research and client support. This background allows Kierra to approach each matter with practical insight and a clear understanding of how cases develop from initial filing through resolution.

In her personal time, Kierra enjoys golfing, exercising, traveling and spending time with friends and family.
