COLUMBIA, SC – Columbia attorney Adam Ribock of law firm McAngus Goudelock & Courie (MGC) was named Treasurer of the South Carolina Defense Trial Attorneys' Association (SCDTAA) for the 2026–2027 term. Ribock will serve on the organization's Executive Committee, which promotes justice, professionalism and integrity in South Carolina's civil justice system. Founded in 1968, SCDTAA represents approximately 1,000 attorneys practicing in various areas of civil defense litigation and provides continuing legal education and professional development opportunities throughout the state.

Ribock focuses his practice on civil litigation, including personal injury, premises liability, construction defect claims, automotive and homeowners' association litigation. He earned his Juris Doctor from the University of Mississippi School of Law and his Bachelor of Science from the University of South Carolina. Ribock is a member of the Augusta Bar Association, Richland County Bar Association and South Carolina Defense Trial Attorneys' Association. He is a graduate of Leadership Columbia and has been recognized by The Best Lawyers in America and Columbia Business Monthly's Legal Elite of the Midlands.

McAngus Goudelock & Courie is a metrics-driven law built specifically to serve the insurance industry, their insureds and self-insureds. Past success does not indicate the likelihood of success in any future legal representation.
